DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

On page 5, line 18, change "dram" to –drum--.

Appropriate correction is required.

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Where applicant acts as his or her own lexicographer to specifically define a term of a claim contrary to its ordinary meaning, the written description must clearly redefine the claim term and set forth the uncommon definition so as to put one reasonably skilled in the art on notice that the applicant intended to so redefine that claim term. Process

Control Corp. v. HydReclaim Corp., 190 F.3d 1350, 1357, 52 USPQ2d 1029, 1033 (Fed. Cir. 1999). The term “pulse” in claims 1 and 9 is used by the claim to mean “heating under centrifugal force”, while the accepted meaning is “intermittent or rhythmical beating .” The term is indefinite because the specification does not clearly redefine the term.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over (RU 2186616) in view of (SU 1490404). (RU 2186616) discloses the thermomimpact treatment of bulk materials which includes stages of evaporating moisture from the bulk material and rapid heating performed in multiple chambers, the bulk material is heated due to centrifugal forces on heated surfaces which are conical to a temperature of over 100 degrees C, wherein the contact time and the centrifugal force is a function of the rotation speed, after heating, the bulk material is rapidly cooled and the remaining product is collected in a collector. The time of material moving along the heated surface under the action of gravitational force is controlled by frictional forces of the conical surface and are also regulated by the changing of the speed of rotation. While RU 2186616 discloses the applicants primary inventive concept including the use of conical surfaces, the method by which they are used is different than that of the applicants invention, wherein the evaporating of excess moisture and heating to a set temperature are combined. SU 1490404 teaches a method for drying bulk materials wherein evaporating excess moisture and heating to a set temperature are combined. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the subject matter pertains to have modified the method of RU 2186616 by incorporating the evaporating of excess moisture and heating to a set temperature in a combined step as taught by SU 1490404 for the benefit of reducing the drying time of the bulk materials thus creating a more efficient system.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-8 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 9-20 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.
